Commissioner Price:

James Davis researched your question regarding the HRC and Pauli Murray Awards dates. James determined that:

The Board of County Commissioners established the Human Relations Commission in 1987 following two Orange County Klan rallies, in order "to encourage mutual understanding and fair treatment of all citizens and . . . encourage actions which reduce tensions among groups of citizens in Orange County."

James also discovered the resolution in support of the formation of the HRC signed by BOCC Chair, Shirley E. Marshall, on June 16, 1987.

The Orange County Civil Rights Ordinance was enacted in 1994, to be enforceable as of Jan. 1, 1995 and also having its last amendment of record in 1995. This could be the nexus to the 1995 date on the initial proclamation.

Based on James' research and additional information, the proclamation has been revised to incorporate the June 1987 and 1987 dates.

Please see the attached, and staff will have copies at Board members' places at Thursday night's meeting.

James also noted his thanks to you (Commissioner Price) for noting the date concern.

Greg

Greg,

Re the item on the Human Relation Commission, the abstract states that the Pauli Murray Award, which is a project of the HRC, has been in existence since 1990, yet the resolution states that the HRC has been in existence since 1995. The resolution needs to be corrected.

Renee Price, Commissioner
Board of County Commissioners
