

Wildlife Stuck?

How can you help AND keep yourself safe?

Sometimes wild animals, especially young ones, get themselves into places they can't get out of.

First things first, keep YOU safe!

- Do not attempt to handle the animal.
- A scared wild animal is a dangerous wild animal!
- Keep yourself and all children and pets a very safe distance from the animal.

What can you do to safely help?

- Place a board at an angle that the animal can use as a ramp to climb out.
- Secure a blanket or towel to the side of the too slippery surface to allow the animal to climb out.
- Always step back and give the animal plenty of room and never put your hands close enough for a scared animal to get a hold of.
